WOP DUBAI 2017 REVIEW

WOP DUBAI 2017 – Trade Fair for Fresh Goods Sets New Standards:

The annual exhibitions hosted 221 exhibitors from around the world showcasing a wide variety of fresh produce to meet the growing demand of the region's major cities, which constantly innovate and develop to build a livable and sustainable environment for both citizens and visitors.

Trade visitors were presented to a diverse range of fresh products, trading, technical equipment, services and latest trend and technologies from local, regional and international market.

A total of 34 country participants and 11 official country pavilions were participated the show.

A high quality of fruit and vegetables is greatly appreciated in the United Arab Emirates. The Gulf region therefore is a significant market for the fruit and vegetables industry. In this respect, Dubai is used as a hub because over 40 percent of all the imported fresh goods are re-exported to the other Gulf States.

This year, WOP DUBAI also focused on new technologies and equipment for the producers of fresh goods, including transport trolleys for the fruit and vegetable market and air freight containers for fresh goods.

In the supporting programme, the Fruitnet Forum Middle East, the brand-new networking event organized by leading industry publication Eurofruit, brought together some of the region's leading industry players and discussed some of the concerns of the fresh produce trade in the Middle East.

91.3% of exhibitors were positively evaluated the chances for a successful follow up business after the fair.
